

STANDARD OIL CO. FINED OVER TWENTY-NINE MILLION

Constitution Involved in Motion to Set Aside the Judgment Which Was Overruled by Judge Landis

TIME GRANTED FOR BILL OF EXCEPTIONS

Special Grand Jury Ordered to Sit August 14 to In- vestigate Further Violations of the Law—Guilty on Over a Thousand Counts.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Judge Kenesaw Landis in federal court today imposed a fine of $29,240,000 on the Standard Oil company of Indiana, convicted by a jury of receiving rebates on oil shipments.

After the court concluded reading the decision, Merritt Starr, attorney for the defense, objected to the final entry of order because the Standard's lawyer were not present. Judge Landis said it was agreed they were to be there and hence the request would receive no consideration. Mr. Starr moved to set aside and vacate the judgment as being in violation of the eighth amendment of the constitution which prohibits the infliction of excessive fines. The court overruled this as well as a number of other motions for delay.

Mr. Starr asked for a long time to prepare a bill of exceptions. District Attorney Sims says it had been agreed between himself and counsel for the Standard that sixty days be allowed for preparation of the bill. The court said he did not approve as it had been agreed he would respect arrangement and named sixty days. The court intimated no further delay would be granted. The case will go to the court of appeals in January.

The charge on which the Standard Oil company was convicted was violating the Elkins act of 1903, by accepting concessions equivalent to rebate and shipping oil at six cents a hundred pounds when the published rate was eighteen cents. The jury convicted the Standard on 1462 counts. The maximum penalty for each count is $20,000 and Judge Landis imposed the limit. The court also directed that the grand jury be called August 14 to investigate the condition of other parties to the guilty transactions. The Chicago & Alton railroad, which gave rebates at issue. For this purpose he ordered a special grand jury to sit August 14.

In giving his decision Judge Landis in an opinion of 7500 words scored the Standard Oil company and the railroad for this illegal acts. Regarding the power of congress to fix a uniformity of rates Judge Landis said: "It being now settled that congress has this power, it necessarily follows that to preserve uniformity, congress may prohibit the doing of any act whatever by any person or corporation to impair the uniformity and may resort to such prohibitions by such provisions as congress may see fit."

As the capital of the Standard of Indiana is only $1000,000 Judge Landis explained that the heavy fine due to the fact that the Standard of New Jersey owned a large part of the stock of the Standard of Indiana, and that the earnings of the Standard during the years covered by the indictment were 40 per cent on the capitalization of one hundred millions.

The court believes the Standard Oil company has been the old offender. He said: "This court is obliged to confess that it cannot indulge in the presumption that in this case the defendant was convicted of its virgin offense."

Continuing, he said: "It is the defendant's position that its offense was purely technical because nobody was hurt, there being no other shippers of oil, and therefore, the punishment should be a modest fine. It is novel indeed, for a convicted defendant to urge the complete triumph of a dishonest course as the reason why such a course should be unpunished. Of course, there was no other shipper of oil nor could there be so long as by a secret agreement the property of the Standard Oil Company was hauled by railroad common carrier for one-third of what anybody else would have to pay. If other men of genius and capital conducted their business with honesty and integrity, they would be forced out by these Standard men by methods unvelled in this prosecution.

"The only way to either men to stay in the oil business would be to adopt the illegal practices of this defendant. The Standard has profited by secret illegal rebates. Other shippers had to bear the burden. The men who thus deliberately violate the law wound society more deeply than does he who counterfeits coin or steals letters from mails. The nominal defendant is the Standard Oil company of Indiana. The Standard Oil company of New Jersey, is the real defendant."

Judge Landis in concluding urged that the fine was very moderate, considering the immense profits the Standard had made from its illegal practices.

GRAND JURY INDICTS FISH TRUST TODAY

Chicago Aug. 3.—The grand jury today returned indictments against Booth & Co. the so-called fish trust, and the Lake Shore railroad, besides a number of individuals, as a result of the investigation which has occupied the government officials for several months. The charge is that by means of a private car line company, known as the Traders' Dispatch, Booth & Co. received rebates of approximately 12 per cent on all its own shipments from the Atlantic seaboard, as well as those of competing fish concerns.

FIVE ARRESTS MADE IN CHINATOWN

Boston, Aug. 3.—Five Chinese have been arrested since midnight charged with taking part in the murder raid in Chinatown last night in which three of their countrymen were instantly killed and several others wounded, at least three of them fatally. It was the worst massacre that ever occurred in the Boston Chinese quarter. At the bottom of it all is a woman, One Fah Wong, a Chinese slave girl, the fame of whose beauty spread from Los Angeles to New York, until it is alleged a rich Chinese member of the On Leong Tong determined to buy her and sent as his agent to San Francisco Mong Duck, a Chinese actor. Mong Duck, according to rumors current today, was successful.

FORTUNE

Awaits the Slain Man's Young Widow if She is Cured of Drug Habit.

East Liverpool, O., Aug. 3.—The bulk of $15,000 in cash in a Pittsburgh bank and considerable real estate in this city and Chester, W.

Va., are to become the property of Maude Smith, whose name before her marriage to Clark L. Hineman of Moundsville, W. Va., was Marie Bertrand, of Wheeling, W. Va., if she is cured of a drug habit she is alleged to possess.

The will of her late husband, which has just been filed for probate in the Columbiana county courts makes such provision for the young widow.

Hineman was fatally shot here the night of July 22. The fact that he was married did not become known until after he was taken to the hospital.

CORTELYOU

Will Be Candidate for Presidency Unless Roosevelt Decides to Run Again.

New York, Aug. 3.—The Herald today publishes the report under a Saratoga date line that George B. Cortelyou, secretary of the treasury, will positively be a candidate for the Republican nomination for President, unless President Roosevelt becomes a candidate again.

Cortelyou's entrance into the race, it is predicted, will create a lively political mix-up in New York state. Word is being passed about quietly to Republican leaders, who control counties, not to allow delegates to be pledged to any candidate because another man is to take the field. This is Cortelyou.

Cortelyou, it is asserted, does not approve of Taft's candidacy because he has been marked as the "administration man." Cortelyou will run as no man's man. His friends believe Cortelyou can beat any one except Roosevelt.

SPECULATION PAYS FOR EDUCATION PROFESSOR BELIEVES

Des Moines, Aug. 3.—Speculating in Wall street, for educational purposes pays. At least one college professor, who has just made a killing in the market, believes this is the case. He is Prof. E. T. Eaton, of Montana College, who cleared up $100,000 in Wall street.

Prof. Eaton is the founder of Montana College at Dear Lodge, Mont., but formerly lived here. He needed money for his institution and finally applied to Andrew Carnegie. He was told to raise $50,000 and an equal amount would be given.

The Professor tried hard but $10,000 was all he could raise in a thorough canvass of Montana. Then he tried Wall street. When he went to New York he had letters to several financiers who gave him "tips" on how to speculate. In a few weeks he cleaned up the $100,000 without losing a penny. Most of the money was won in the recent Union Pacific rise.

MANACLES

On Wrists and Chains on Ankles, Texas Doctor, Suddenly Crazed, Is Taken from the Train.

Fulton, Ky., Aug. 3.—Dr. Geo. A. Volck, a prominent citizen of Houston, Texas, became violently insane on the New Orleans-Chicago train of the I. C. railway just before it reached here. He was taken from his berth in the Pullman with chains about his ankles and manacles upon his wrists, and has been under guard of four attendants ever since that time. He constantly raves about a murder and a $20,000 check. He carries a large sum of money and a round trip to Chicago.

SLIGHT DECLINES IN STOCK MARKETS

New York, Aug. 3.—Where changes occurred at the opening of a stock market, prices in most cases showed slight fractional declines. Amalgamated Copper started 3-8 down, and Reading, Steel common and Southern Pacific 1-8 lower. Smelting gained and lost 1-4. Great Northern preferred and New York Central advanced 1-4, while Union Pacific declined 1-4.

EIGHTEEN KILLED

(Bulletin.)
Berlin, Aug. 3.—Eighteen men have been killed and 32 injured, several severely in a mining disaster at Hambach, in Southern Germany.

Federal Judge McCall at Memphis, Tenn., denied the prayer for an injunction on the part of the Central Trust company of New York city, holder of the Memphis street railway bonds, restraining the city of Memphis from inaugurating the cheap street car fare.

JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS WON IN CONTEST WITH VARDAMAN

John Sharp Williams.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 3.—Today's tabulation of all counties of the state, except Jefferson Davis county, gives the Senatorship to John Sharp Williams by a majority of 1,555 votes. It seems that the present leader of the minority in Congress will be seated in the United States senate.

TILLMAN

CHALLENGES FORAKER TO A JOINT DEBATE ON THE NEGRO QUESTION.

And Says He Will Beat Him in His Own State at Any Time or Place.

Coshocton, Aug. 3.—Senator Ben Tillman, opening the Coshocton Chautauqua Friday before 2000 people, replied to Senator Foraker's Bellefontaine speech and formally challenged the Ohioan to a debate on the negro question on some platform in Ohio.

"And before an audience composed entirely of Republicans," Tillman said, "I'll beat him on his own proposition and make the Republicans of the North admit that the South had the best of the argument all the way through. I have put the pitchfork into Foraker and other senators of the North and turned it round and round, but they always answer me at long range. I'll force them yet to take up the question on the floor of the senate."

He denied that the South brought the fifteenth amendment on itself, as Foraker charged, and branded it purely political greed and not at all necessary. He declared the legal aspect of the case was in favor of the South, but that politics was all that kept the North on the negro's side.

"Senator Foraker and the others in the North dare not go against the negro. If they do they will be voted out of office, for the negroes hold the balance of power in Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, New York, Kansas and Delaware," he said. Tillman declared he agreed with Foraker on the Brownsville stand and admired him as an adroit statesman. After the speech he declared he was in earnest about a debate here in Ohio with Senator Foraker on the negro problem and would meet him any time and place.

AT THE GRAVE

Of Her Husband She Wept on the Undertaker's Shoulder and Accepted Marriage Proposal.

Elkhart, Ind., Aug. 3.—At the grave of her husband, Mrs. Myra Jones, of Bronson, Mich., received a proposal of marriage from Edward Turner, the undertaker, and she promptly accepted. He was so sympathetic in his bearing toward the family that Mrs. Jones was moved to admiration. As the two stood at the open grave the widow burst into tears and buried her face against Turner's shoulder.

Mrs. Jones decided that they had better not get married in their home town and they planned an elopement to Elkhart. On the day of their departure, however, Undertaker Turner was detained by a professional engagement and Mrs. Jones made the trip to Elkhart alone, arriving yesterday. She confided her story to the wife of a hotel proprietor. She expects Undertaker Turner to arrive today.

An attack was made on the three-cent-a-mile passenger rate of Union Pacific railroad company by Charles A. Sibley, a resident of the State of Nebraska. Sibley's complaint was filed with the interstate commerce commission.

KAISER AND CZAR MEET ON YACHT FOR QUIET TALK

GERMAN AND RUSSIAN RULERS EMBRACED, WM. KISSING NICHOLAS ON CHEEK.

GREAT PRECAUTION TAKEN

To Protect Czar from Assassination, Guns Fire Salute to Royal Rulers Today.

Swinemunde, Germany, Aug. 3.—The extraordinary precaution which is being taken to protect Czar Nicholas against assassination is the most notable feature of the meeting of the port of the Russian ruler with Kaiser Wilhelm. The Russian imperial yacht has been under heavy guard and efforts will be made to see that he encounters no dangers from his enemies. The entire German home squadron consisting of 30 warships, surrounded the royal yachts, Standart and Hohenzollern, as they lie at anchor, and torpedo boats played the waters constantly as the squadron came into sight. Kaiser Wilhelm signalled "Welcome to Germany." The czar replied, "I am delighted to see you again." Then the German warships boomed out the imperial salute of 101 guns. Then the Russian vessel replied with similar salutes. Kaiser Wilhelm boarded the Standart. He embraced the czar and kissed him on both cheeks and they retired to the cabin for a talk.

FLOGGED

By the Angry Alderman, Who Refused to Fine Him, Was the Big Wife-Beater.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 3.—Declaring that fines and imprisonment were not the punishment for such as he, Alderman D. A. McKelvey of Hazleton, Friday publicly flogged Louis Sambolia, a stalwart mine worker, who was convicted of brutally beating and abusing his wife. When the little woman told her sad tale the Alderman could not contain himself. Jumping from his bench he rushed at the prisoner and took him to the street and handcuffed him to a tie post.

"There is only one kind of punishment that will do a brute like you any good," he declared, "and I mean to give it to you."

The crowd divined his intention, and cheered. Sambolia's coat was pulled from his back and the Alderman piled the strap with all his power. Sambolia fell to his knees crying for mercy after the first two blows, but the Alderman did not cease raining them upon the prisoner's back until he was out of breath. Then he called the abused wife, who had been waiting and watching the proceedings with a great deal of satisfaction, to her husband's side.

"You take her hand, beg her forgiveness and promise that you will treat her better in the future," he ordered. Sambolia between his sobs did so, and he was released.

NO ARREST WILL FOLLOW IONIA WRECK

Detroit, Aug. 3.—No arrests will follow the inquest of the Ionia train wreck, which cost 31 lives. The verdict holds four members of the freight crew, two operators at Plymouth, the train dispatcher, and the Pere Marquette railroad, whose system is declared at fault, equally responsible. The prosecutor says there is no ground for a warrant for manslaughter and none will be asked.

BLOODHOUNDS

Placed on the Trail of the Missing Sanitarium Lunatic, Made Mad By a Love Affair.

Marion, Ohio, Aug. 3.—Bloodhounds were brought here Friday from Dayton and placed on the trail of Miss I. A. Black, aged 35 years, a patient who escaped from the Sawyer Sanitarium last Monday night. The missing woman was last seen near Aden's Woods, in the western part of the county, where the dogs were given the scent. She has a mania for hiding, and it is believed she will be found in the underbrush.

Miss Black, formerly a school-teacher, was driven into melancholia by a love affair. Mrs. Alexander Cruikshank, wife of a wealthy physician at Salem, Ohio, is personally conducting the search for her sister.

Six persons were killed by lightning and enormous damage done to crops in Germany by extensive floods as a consequence of a terrific storm.

CHILDREN WHO WENT WRONG

Story of Hiram Winters, Who Arrested His Mother For an Assassin and Colored His Father on Suspicion of Being a Highway Robber.

[Copyright, 1907, by M. M. Cunningham.] James Schermerhorn at twelve years old was a bad boy. He wore his cap on the back of his head, he whistled "Yankee Doodle" on Sundays, he threw axes and crowbars at stray dogs, and if his mother sent him to the grocery to get a quart of molasses in a jug he would swing the jug around his head until the handle broke off. Mrs. Schermerhorn, who was a widow, talked with James many times about his wickedness and assured him, with tears in her eyes, that if he did not mend his ways he would come to some sudden and awful end. He would promise her to become an angel, but an hour later he would be found getting up a fight between a dog and a goat and betting two to one on the dog.

No boy can keep on being bad and making his widowed mother weep tears of sorrow without a climax coming. About the time he begins to think he's the worst boy in town and is proud of the fact a trap is laid for him. It was so in the case of James Schermerhorn. One day after he had taken two steps out of the cellar stairs, so that his uncle Thomas would have a fall when he went to carry a bag of potatoes down cellar, he ran out into the street and hitched on to the back end of the wagon. The driver was a determined man with a wooden leg. He had fought in the Spanish war and was afraid of no boy.

"Young man, I allow no hitching on," he said as he turned and saw James climbing over the tailboard of the wagon.

James was at error. "I am the bad boy who choked a bear to death with my naked hands," replied James as he put on a bloody and sinister look.

"It's nothing to me how bad you are. Unhitch your hitch and get off my wagon or you will reap sorrow," "I don't have to."

Then the man who had fought in the Spanish war and killed thousands of Spaniards and buried them in unmarked graves saw that he was defied and that his reputation as a brave man was at stake. He stopped his horses and as to make a jump for James, and just at that moment the sawmill took fire, and an alarm was sent in, and a fire engine came galloping out, and the defiant boy saw that he had gone too far, and all at once he let go his hitch and dropped into the street. The Spanish veteran cried out to him, but he only ran out his tongue and made up a face in reply. He did not know that the engine was close upon him until he was under the heavy wheels.

James Schermerhorn was carried home and laid on the bed. Several doctors poked away at him and said that he would never crawl under the canvas on circus day again. He was unconscious for several hours, but just before he died he opened his eyes, smiled at his weeping mother and whispered:

"I wish I had been a good boy and died of the yellow fever instead of this."

It is hard work to be a good boy. There is no fun in it. You can't rob orchards or melon patches or break windows or peg the mayor with snowballs, but you will live on and be respected, and some day your fellow men, tired of seeing you around so much, will elect you to the legislature and make your family proud of you.

Henry Harper was another sad case of how a boy can go wrong. Up to the age of eight he was praised on all sides for his goodness. Then a boy called Terrible Tom lent him an Indian story written by Bunt Needle. It told how a lad nine years old ran away from home and went west to fight Indians. He killed over 200 and burned their villages and obliged their squaws to weave red blankets for him, and then he came home to be a bad boy. If his mother wept over his refusal to go to the grocery for a can of kerosene, he drew his scarping knife and threatened to take her scalp. If his father took him by the collar to lead him out into the wood shed, he threw his tomahawk and uttered a war-whoop and was let alone.

One day when the village constable started to arrest Henry as a desperado the youth hid himself in a cider mill and threatened to burn every widow and orphan in the town at the stake if he was not let alone. They coaxed, and they threatened, but nothing would move the boy. At last, when his mother had become so perturbed that she could no longer keep up the monthly payments on her sewing machine and when his father was looking out for a good place to jump into the mill pond and drown himself, there came a fatal day in this bad boy's history. No bad boy ever escapes that fatal day. It is as sure to come as that a city alderman gets rich on holding two terms of office.

Henry met a Sad Fate. A tin peddler drove into the village to sell his wares, and Henry Harper determined to add his scalp to his large and interesting collection. The peddler objected to being made a bald-headed man. Some folks were inclined afterward to blame him, saying that the less hair he had the less money he would have to pay out for hair dye, but in defending his scalp he pushed Henry down an old well, and the boy was drowned before they could lower a rope to him. It is hoped that he repeated of his badness before he died, but you never can tell. It was an awful fate to overtake a young boy, but what can you expect? A boy can kill off about so many Indians and terrorize about so many white folk, and then an old well or something else comes along, and he is a goner. This does not apply to red-headed boys in particular, but to all sorts of boys.

As a baby Hiram Winters was loved by all. He would just lie around on the floor or under the bed or in any other old place and coo and smile and laugh and try to tickle his own fat feet. He was never known to keep his parents awake at night, and if his mother gave him the butcher knife or a box of matches to play with while she went visiting he never attempted to cut his young throat or set the house on fire. Thousands of people said that he would live to be president of the United States and an honor to his parents, and he looked that way for a time; but, alas, he had hardly learned the alphabet when he got hold of an Old Sleuth book and started on his downward career. He determined to be a great detective and a desperate man, and his young and brief career was full of adventure and excitement. He was only seven years old when he arrested his mother for an assassin. Then he collared his father on suspicion of being a highway robber. Two years he was on the trail of everybody. He was talked to and argued with and licked in vain. They put him in jail, and he dug out. Other sleuths hunted him, and he escaped. He called himself the Midnight Shadow of Shadowville, and he boasted that no criminal could escape him.

That Bad Boy Hiram. Hiram had rendered himself a terror when fate determined to bring him low. His father started out with the kerosene can one night to visit the grocery, and Hiram took his trail. He had a suspicion that his parent was going to rob a bank, and he wanted to catch him in the act. He was skulking along the street with a dark lantern in one hand and a revolver in the other, while he had a pair of handcuffs in his hand pocket, when a wire fence man came driving into the town on a gallop and ran the boy down. He wasn't killed outright, but lingered along for two weeks. During this time he sent for other boys and talked to them, with tears in his eyes. He told them that goodness was a good thing to live by, and that they couldn't make a cent out of badness, and that if he had his life to live over again he would go to Africa and make the heathen stand on their heads with goodness or know the reason why. Then he died, and they planted catnip and hollyhocks on his grave, but to this day they speak of him as "that bad boy Hiram," and they point to his case to warn other boys against following in his footsteps.

MOUNTAIN AND MOUSE

National Civic Federation Report Is Disappointing.

After Two Years of Labor the Committee Brings Forth a Report Which Proves Little—Investigators Allow Their Prejudices to Blind Them to the Facts—Labor Unions Are Warned of Danger.

For two years a committee of the National Civic Federation has been making a study of municipal ownership in the United States and England, the investigators having been selected impartially from the advocates and opponents of municipal ownership. The report embodying the findings of this committee will be published this month in two parts, one of which will be devoted to the opinions of the investigators, the other to the statistical information upon which those opinions are supposed to be based.

Half Truths. We use the word "supposed" advisedly, for from the advance sections that have been given to the papers it appears that some at least of the municipal ownership members of the committee have not considered it necessary to make their opinions square with the facts. For instance, Mr. Bemis holds up the Wheeling (W. Va.) gas plant as an example of successful municipal ownership because its net rate is 75 cents, while $1 is charged by the companies in Norfolk, Va., and Atlanta, Ga. According to the newspaper reports, Mr. Bemis does not inform the public that the average price of coal in Norfolk and Atlanta is at least 60 per cent higher than in Wheeling and that the latter city uses natural gas as fuel in its retorts, nor does he call attention to the important fact that the average candlepower in the two cities named is 25 per cent higher than in Wheeling.

Charity Begins at Home. Where Mr. Bemis does use figures he uses them shrewdly. As superintendent of the Cleveland waterworks he of course knows that in that city the average death rate from typhoid in the thirty-two years preceding 1905 was 52 per 100,000. So he uses for comparison with cities that have private waterworks only the years 1905-06, when the typhoid death rate in Cleveland averaged only 17.8 per 100,000. Two years is of course far too short a period upon which to base such a comparison, since the rates vary widely in different years, the rate in Syracuse in 1906, for example, being only about half what it was in 1905, while Cleveland dropped from 114 in 1905 to 15 in 1906.

Hope Versus Experience. Professor Parsons, another of the M. O. members of the committee, seems to prefer the future to the past as a basis for determining results. He expresses his conviction that municipal ownership would develop a higher class of municipal administrators, but when he is faced with such conditions as existed in Philadelphia under the notorious gas ring he promptly sidesteps the issue by declaring that Philadelphia did not have public ownership, but only ownership by political grafters. The humor of this is apparent when one considers that one of the principal objections to municipal ownership is that it tends to result in "ownership by political grafters."

Politics Versus Efficiency. On this point the opinions of Professor Commons are worth quoting. Although he also has a predilection for municipal ownership, he evidently assumed that it was his duty to give a verdict in accordance with the facts. His sincerity must be recognized even by those who do not accept all of his conclusions. He and Mr. Sullivan, editor of the Clothing Trades Bulletin, consider the labor aspects of the subject. Professor Commons admits that some municipal plants are "politically honeycombed" and adds:

"The appointment, promotion and dismissal of employees and the wages to be paid offer peculiar opportunities for political and personal influence inconsistent with efficiency."

Professor Commons finds that it is not unusual for public service companies to appoint employees at the behest of political bosses, but he notes that in such cases the employee has to make good in order to hold his position, while in the case of city plants the politician's influence is expected to keep the man in the position even if he is incompetent or negligent.

Municipal Employees Pull Together. In Great Britain Professor Commons finds that municipalization has produced "a spurious form of trades unionism," which was repudiated by a practically unanimous vote of the trades union congress in 1906 on the ground that the Municipal Employees' association is a class rather than a trade organization. Speaking of the disfranchisement of municipal employees because of their tendency to support candidates who will concede their demands, Professor Commons says that this is not the true remedy, though "it goes without proof that such a remedy is needed, for municipal employees sooner or later cast their votes for candidates who promise or have secured a betterment of their condition regardless of its effect on the enterprise as a whole."

A Menace to Unionism. Professor Commons considers that trades unions will check this tendency, but such has not proved to be the case in England, and Mr. Sullivan, who is evidently a friend of the unions, points out that it is more probable that the organization of municipal employees will undermine unionism than that the unions will be able to keep the city employees out of politics. The fact that municipal departments must be open shops supports Mr. Sullivan's contention and should be given more consideration by union men than they have hitherto accorded it.

The Matter of Wages. These two investigators agree that in Great Britain the wages in municipal plants are not higher than elsewhere except in the case of unskilled labor and in the tramways. In this connection it is worth while to recall the words of James Dalrymple, manager of the municipal tramways of Glasgow:

"In Glasgow when we took over the tramways we paid a better wage, but we did not pay that wage to the same men. It was paid to other men. We got superior men."

In general Professor Commons finds common labor better paid by cities in America than by companies, but Mr. Sullivan points out that in many cases at least the man is expected to earn this extra wage by voting and working for his political boss and that his tenure of office depends on this rather than on his efficiency and adds:

"In America the municipal enterprises visited by our labor investigators have been rich mines for significant facts relating to politics rather than to labor."

America Behind Europe? One section of Professor Commons' report is very misleading. He says: "Neither municipal ownership nor private ownership has accomplished the good results in the United States that should be expected of it, and both are far behind what both have accomplished in Great Britain." * * * We are in precisely the same position that British municipalities occupied forty years ago in the gas business and fifteen to thirty years ago in the street car and electricity business.

The utter absurdity of this statement is shown by the fact that in 1904, the last year for which statistics are available, there were in the United States 30,187 miles of street railways against 2,117 in the United Kingdom, although the population of the latter country was then more than half that of the United States. It is a well recognized fact that in the application of electricity to lighting and power the United States not only leads the world, but nearly equals all the rest of the world.

THE NEEDED SPANKING.

Hughes Administered It in His Two Cent Fare Veto.

It seems not improbable that Governor Hughes' veto of the two cent rate bill may mark the beginning of the end of what may be fairly termed predatory legislation. The judicial words of the governor are in marked contrast to the attitude of those legislators and city politicians who, with demagogic short sightedness, have assumed that the best way to win votes is to badge corporations.

The recklessness of these men has brought the country to the verge of a business depression that is the natural result of the sudden check to industrial development, for men with brains enough to make money are not likely to risk it in new enterprises or extensions of old ones when all prospect of profit may be cut away by an act of a state legislature or a city council.

It is great fun for the baby to poke sticks into the works of a watch, and the infantile intelligence of certain "statesmen" probably derives equal delight from their attempts to "regulate" industries of whose workings they know no more than the baby does about the watch. Governor Hughes has administered the needed spanking.

Unfair Comparisons.

One of the commonest arguments advanced by those favoring municipal ownership as proof of the excellent working of that system is to compare the cost of lighting under municipal ownership with the contract price paid private companies at the time when the plant was taken over.

They are specially prone to do this in cases where the municipal plant was started at an early period, when electric lighting was in its infancy and when the cost was necessarily very much higher than it is now. They entirely ignore the fact that there has been a steady fall in price of lights furnished by private companies since that period and that if they had had no municipal plant they would probably be getting lights at a lower cost today than the municipal plant is capable of securing.

Government's True Functions.

The true and only function of government is to see to it that the citizens are protected in their rights and in the free enjoyment of their means of livelihood from foreign invasion, from the attacks of criminals and from individuals or organizations that would take advantage of the power derived from wealth or privileges to oppress their fellows and extort from them excessive compensation for services. This involves the right of reasonable regulation of public utilities, but it does not warrant any city or state in undertaking work that can be performed by a private enterprise. The moment a government, either monarchical or republican, oversteps this limit it starts upon a road that has no turning and that logically ends in absolute paternalism or in state socialism.

To Shut Down M. O. Plant.

The mayor of Lebanon, Tenn., is authorizing the plant of the municipal electric lighting system will be shut down, as a contract for current has been made with a private company. The system cost $15,000, most of which will now have to be written off the books.

BIG CELEBRATION FOR MAINE

American Shipbuilding's Tercentenary to Be Observed at Bath. The three hundredth anniversary of American shipbuilding will be observed in Bath, Me., and the adjacent towns at the mouth of the Kennebec River during the week of Aug. 5 by one of the greatest celebrations ever attempted in Maine, says a Bath correspondent of the New York Tribune.

It was at Popham Beach, settled by George Popham in 1607, where colonists built the first American vessel, named the Virginia and launched it on the placid Kennebec. In commemoration of this event the city of Bath, which since that time has become famous for the stanch ships sent out to the maritime world from its shipyards, and the neighboring town of Popquon, which claims the distinction of building the first vessel, will join hands in making the tercentennial an appropriately important affair.

To give the celebration something more than a local or state interest the committee in charge has solicited and obtained promise of the presence of several American and British warships and the attendance of the governors of the six New England states. The programme, which has recently been completed, will be varied. Big bonfires on both banks of the river mouth, with a display of fireworks, a great water carnival, literary exercises, with historical addresses by prominent men, civic and military parades, athletic sports, receptions and miscellaneous festivities will crowd the week.

ODD MARRIAGE PROPOSITION.

South Dakota Girl Will Wed Rancher if He Possesses Several Virtues.

James Simpson, a wealthy cattle rancher living on the range near Sunflower, Neb., saw in a newspaper that a club of Westington Springs (S. D.) girls twelve in number had adopted a little girl and intended to educate her. Eligible girls are scarce in western Nebraska, and Simpson immediately wrote the girls offering to marry any one of them and to adopt and educate their little proteges, says a Sunflower dispatch to the New York Sun.

Simpson has received an answer saying that the Dakota girls had given him offer due consideration, and as a result the oldest one of them agreed to marry him on these conditions: That he prove that he is sincere; that he is qualified in every way to contract marriage; that he is amply able to provide a comfortable home for his bride and is willing to make provision for her every need and comfort; that he abstain from tobacco in every form; that he will not use intoxicating liquors to any extent; that he shall be chaste and pleasant in conversation, use no profane nor improper language, spend his evenings at home, not frequent clubs or poolrooms, not flirt with any women and attend church every Sunday.

Simpson is examining himself to see if he can fill the bill, and if he can he says he will accept the proposition and get married.

Japan's World's Fair.

Even the dates have been selected for the opening and closing of the next great world's fair. The Japanese government announces that the Tokyo exhibition will open in 1912 on April 1, when the world famous cherry trees of Japan will be in full bloom, and will be closed on Oct. 31, when the season of chrysanthemums will have just set in, says a special cablegram from Tokyo to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The exhibition is the undertaking of the Japanese government itself and will be international in scope and equipment. The grounds will cover an area of 250 acres, the exhibition buildings themselves extending over thirty acres. The government is especially anxious to invite foreign visitors from every quarter of the world.

Peary's Marine Relic.

Commander Robert E. Peary, U. S. N., has purchased of her Damariscotta owners the ancient pinky schooner Mary and will have her restored in an effort to perpetuate this vanishing style of craft. The Mary is strongly built and in good condition, says the Kennebec (Me.) Journal. She is the second oldest merchant vessel under the American flag, having been built at Portsmouth in 1811. Commander Peary is much interested in these quaint crafts and has for some time been attempting to secure one to preserve as a type example, as the pinky build will soon be extinct.

Jail as an Employment Agency.

A Saratoga county (N. Y.) farmer in need of help secured a man by a method that involves some risk, but in urgent cases chances must be taken, says the Utica (N. Y.) Press. Andrew Love was committed to jail at Ballston several weeks ago to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of burglary and larceny. George Crum of Saratoga Lake put up the bond required for his release, with the understanding that Love is to work on his farm until the grand jury meets next October. Crum says he will take Love back to jail if he does not behave himself.

Ironclad Dog Ordinance.

An ironclad dog ordinance has been passed at Frankfort, Ind., against which the dog owners are rebelling, says a special dispatch to the Indianapolis News. The penalty of death apparently awaits every dog. The animal is not permitted on the streets unless accompanied and restrained by the owner. Neither is the brute permitted to howl or bark without imperiling its life. Attached to the ordinance is a dictum directing that the police chief in charge of the patrolmen to shoot every dog caught violating any of the provisions of the ordinance or not.

DOG-BOY AND GORILLA-MAN.

Strange Cases in Iowa of Reversion to Brute Types. What is regarded as strong corroborative evidence of the truth of the Darwinian theory is reported by Iowa Humane society officials after an investigation of the case of two sons of W. A. Leupardez of Wichita, Guthrie county, Ia., says a Des Moines special dispatch to the New York World.

One of the sons, sixteen years old, runs around like a dog, curls up in a ball behind the stove and snarls and tries to bark. The other, twenty years old, has the characteristics of a gorilla. He shows his teeth and makes awful threats.

The Leupardez family are poor and unable properly to restrain the sons. Strange tales of their habits have alarmed the neighbors, and at night windows are locked in fear of the gorilla-man and of the dog-boy that runs with belly to the ground and barks and snarls at people.

Locked in a shed the dog-boy is heard whining when people go to the house. The father fears he will bite people.

A few days ago a party of citizens went to the father and accused the eldest son of a theft. The boy was urged to reveal the hiding place. He grinned mockingly and leaped to the rafters. Then the father placed a rope about his neck and forced him, tugging and bounding, to a tree and threw the end of the rope over a limb. Only then would he yield and show where the stolen articles were secreted.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jones Baird, secretary of the Des Moines Humane society and a specialist in this line of work, who recently returned from the Leupardez home, says she will communicate with eminent scientists in the belief that new and startling light will be turned upon the origin of the human species.

DR. AKED IN JESTING MOOD.

Makes Fun of J. P. Morgan—Says Hymns Sung Here Are Rubbish.

Much of England's economic, social and religious progress has come from America, according to Rev. Dr. Charles F. Aked, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, New York, who lectured at the Chautauqua assembly the other day, says the New York Tribune. His subject was "Jonathan to John." The former English preacher made fun of J. P. Morgan, asserting that "Morganeering" became so extensive in England that the English people carried permits signed by the Wall street financier permitting them to walk on the earth.

Incidentally he made the assertion that the hymns sung in American churches were mostly mere doggerel and rubbish.

The way to get men to church, Dr. Aked said, was to give them a different kind of religion from that offered to their maiden aunts. "When you do that," he said, "you will get people into the congregation who do not wear bonnets. When I came to this country in 1902 your J. P. Morgan was then engaged in 'Morganeering' the English steamship lines, reaching out his hands for the pennies in the subway and annexing pretty nearly every other English enterprise. I am informed that projects were on foot to buy the Tower of London for the World's fair, to purchase Westminster abbey for a museum in Central park, while capitalists were planning to acquire the queen's residence and anchor it in Lake Michigan as a dormitory for the University of Chicago.

"As for the everyday Britisher, from the time he arises in the morning from his bed, after taking two little liver pills, made in America, he uses American products."

TRACE OF ARM LOST IN WAR.

Member Amputated at Antietam Found in Army Museum and Photographed.

Members of congress receive many strange requests from their constituents, but probably the most curious one ever received came to a representative from Minnesota recently from Captain J. F. Allen of St. Paul, says a Washington special to the New York Times. Captain Allen asked the member to look up his arm, which he had lost at the battle of Antietam.

Captain Allen learned that the surgeon who performed the operation had preserved the member and sent it to the Army Medical museum. Captain Allen expressed a desire to have a photograph of the arm, and as he was a very influential man in the district the congressman instructed his secretary to make an investigation.

The arm of the captain was found at the museum in an excellent state of preservation and a photograph was forwarded to Captain Allen.

Pastor's Ad. For Eternal Life.

Rev. A. S. Phelps, pastor of the M. E. church at Plainville, Wis., says the Chicago Record-Herald, is nothing if not up to date. He runs a standing ad. in the local paper calling attention in display type to the goods he handles. It reads as follows:

Eternal Life Assurance society. Home office, Twenty City, New Jerusalem, President, the Lord Jesus Christ, God's everlasting love. The firm assures you peace and joy here and in the next world a life of everlasting blessedness. No certificates of health necessary.

A. S. PHELPS, Representative.

Kisses a Necessity, Says a Preacher.

"Kisses are as much of a necessity as dessert is," said the Rev. W. A. Quayle, who spoke at the Methodist camp meeting at Des Moines, Ill., the other day, says a Chicago dispatch. "I would throw away a biscuit any time for a kiss."

NEW YORK'S GOOD ACCOUNTING LAW

The New York legislature has enacted a public accounting law which is an outgrowth of the campaign vigorously conducted in Ohio in the interest of such a measure for this state. Ohio's law has been in effect for some years. The New York law reads:

Reports.—Every county, other than those comprising the city of New York, every city of the second and third classes, and every incorporated village, shall annually make a report of its financial condition to the comptroller. Such reports shall be made by the treasurers of the various counties, the comptrollers of cities of the second and third classes and the treasurers of villages, but if, for any reason, the comptroller shall deem it necessary that additional information be furnished by any other officer of the municipalities named herein, he may require such additional information from such other officer in such form as he may deem necessary to carry into effect the purposes of this act. All reports shall be duly verified by the oath of the officer making the same and shall be filed with the comptroller within sixty days after the close of the fiscal year of such municipality. Every such officer shall also, within sixty days after the expiration of his term of office, or his resignation or removal therefrom, make a report to the comptroller of the financial condition of such municipal corporation on the date of the expiration of his term of office, or his resignation or removal from office, as the case may be. The refusal or willful neglect of such officer to file a report as herein prescribed shall be a misdemeanor.

Chief Accountant and Examiner of Accounts.—The comptroller shall appoint a chief accountant who, under his direction, shall be charged with the preparation of the forms of the reports required by the provisions of this act, the compilation of the comparative statistics and the inspection and examination of municipal accounts. He shall also appoint not to exceed ten examiners who shall be charged with the duty of inspecting and examining the accounts of such municipal corporations. The chief accountant shall receive a salary of not to exceed two thousand five hundred dollars and his necessary traveling and other actual expenses; the examiners of accounts shall each receive when employed eight dollars a day and their necessary traveling expenses.

Uniform System of Accounts.—The comptroller may formulate and prescribe a system of keeping accounts, which system shall be uniform for each class of municipal corporations specified in section one of this act, and from time to time, whenever he shall deem it necessary, direct the installment of such system by any one or more of the municipal corporations comprising such class. Any officer of such municipal corporation who shall refuse or willfully neglect to comply with such direction of the comptroller, within such reasonable time as the comptroller may prescribe shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The comptroller may, however, and upon good and sufficient cause shown shall, extend such prescribed time as may be reasonable and necessary. The expense of installing a system of keeping accounts in pursuance of this section shall be paid out of such appropriation as shall be made now or hereafter to carry this act into effect.

DOUBLE TAXATION.

Nelson W. Evans of the Portsmouth Board of Trade, in an address before the Tax Commission of Ohio, said:

Now what we want in this state is freedom of tax administration. What we need in Ohio is the repeal of the ad valorem tax provisions of the constitution. We do not need anything in its place, and would be better off with a simple and absolute restraint.

We must get rid of that old phrase, "Laws shall be passed taxing money, credits, bonds, stock and investments in joint stock companies, or otherwise; and also all real and personal property according to its true value in money." That is the rule under which we can have no reform in taxation. No matter what other forms of taxation, we have double taxation and sometimes quadruple taxation. It will be no trouble to repeal Sec. 2 of Art. 12 of the constitution if both political parties agree to it. It has been productive of the most unjust and unequal system of taxation which ever afflicted any people. Today we are suffering the curse of this organic law. We can not compel the return of money; the taxation of credits is unjust and double taxation, and the taxation of stocks as such is double taxation.

MORTGAGE TAX.

New York has a mortgage recording tax law which has increased the revenue from mortgage taxation over the old system by 300 per cent and resulted in a reduction of interest rates.

The principal virtue of the law is that its operation does not admit fraud, since a mortgage to be legal must be recorded, and to be recorded, must pay the tax. Small as the latter is in proportion to the 2 or 2½ per cent formerly levied, it has increased the revenue because formerly more than 80 per cent of the mortgages escaped taxation altogether.

The New York Sun, reviewing the operation of the measure, reports that "the new law warded off a serious shortage of mortgage capital in this town during the latter half of last year. It will no doubt react before long on the rates of interest, bringing them back to the normal level of 4 per cent and 4½ per cent, and perhaps establish them eventually at so low a rate as 3½ to 4 per cent."—Dubuque (Ia.) Telegraph-Herald.

MASTODON BONES IN A CREEK

Odd Discovery of Men Working in Gravel Pit on Indiana Farm.

Workmen operating a gravel suction pump the other evening in the bed of Back creek, on the farm of Ancil Winslow, two miles north of Fairmount, Ind., were startled to see the tooth of some large animal shoot from the end of the discharge pipe, says the Fairmount correspondent of the Indianapolis Star. The tooth weighed fourteen pounds. Within a short time a bone four feet long and twenty inches in diameter came to the top of the water, followed by broken pieces of other mammoth bones.

Further investigation disclosed the fact that the supposedly deserted trunk which had been blocking the progress of the pump during the greater part of the day was nothing else than the skeleton of a mastodon, and it will be necessary to remove the big pile of bones or abandon the gravel pit. It is believed that the greater part of the skeleton remains intact sixteen feet below the surface of the ground. As the bones brought to the surface seem to indicate a good state of preservation, care will be used in preserving the remainder of the bone pile.

Two years ago a similar skeleton was found six miles east of Fairmount by the Smith brothers, who were the tenants of the Gift farm, which resulted in the filing of a lawsuit for possession of the bones, directed against the tenants, who claimed the skeleton by right of discovery, by the landowner, who contended that it was his property, under the classification of minerals. The case was in the Grant county courts for more than a year, and the skeleton was finally sold to a New York museum for $1,000.

ENGLISH BASEBALL FUNNY.

Yale Athletic Adviser Tells About Game He Saw in London.

Walter Camp, athletic adviser at Yale university, who has been in England for five weeks, arrived at New York recently with his wife on the Cunard line. He said baseball as played in England was laughable. Shortly before he left London Mr. Camp said he attended a game played between the Rhodes students at Oxford and a picked nine from the best of the association football players.

"The game started at 2 p. m., he said, "and there was little or no enthusiasm until some errors were made, which caused the runs to accumulate rapidly. The more runs the more the crowd applauded. They overlooked the fine points of the game and looked for high scores, as in cricket. I sat from 2 p. m. until 7 p. m., and when I left they were just finishing the last left of the third inning. The score at that time was something like 58 to 32 in favor of the Rhodes students."

Regarding football, Mr. Camp said he thought there would be no further alterations in football regulations. He said the game as it is played now is about as good as it can be.

MONKEYS AS REASONERS.

Professor Watson Studying Simians Tells Story of Their Intelligence.

Two monkeys are the companions of Professor John B. Watson of the University of Chicago in his hermit life on an island in the gulf of Mexico, says a Chicago special to the New York Times.

The professor is following in the footsteps of Professor Garner by earnest study of the habits of his two pets and has reached the final decision that the simians have reasoning power. Professor Watson submits a story of simian intelligence to prove his belief.

The professor is on one of the Dry Tortugas, off Florida. One of his monkeys is a large one. He threw a banana into the animals' cage. The big monkey rushed, but was struck with a stone which fell from the top of the cage. After that the larger monkey would make the smaller get the fruit and then would take it. This monkey, the professor believes, connected the falling of the stone with the banana and forced its smaller companion to brave the danger.

Professor Watson says in a letter to a fellow professor that he is seeking to learn the simian language.

To Bury His Feet in China.

Several months ago Sank Ino, a Chinaman of Springfield, Ill., was knocked off an interurban car west of Springfield by a collision. Both his legs were run over and the feet taken off. The Chinaman instead of having them buried had them taken with him to St. John's hospital and later had Undertaker Charles T. Bisch embalm the members, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. He invested in cork feet. The other night he left for his home in China, he having obtained $5,000 damages from the interurban railroad for the loss of his feet. He had the feet expressed to him in the Chinese custom in the event of a Chinaman losing any part of his anatomy that it be buried in China.

Believer in Cheerful Funerals.

The Rev. Frederick Spurr, one of the best known Baptist pastors in London, started the mourners at the funeral of one of the deacons of his church the other day by officiating in a gray suit of clothes, says a London special cable dispatch to the New York Sun. When questioned on the subject the pastor declared himself a believer in cheerful funerals. He said, "I am heartily sick of the paganism connected with Christian funerals. The deacon was eighty-two years of age. He had been a good Christian all his life and died of old age, and so at his funeral I wore a gray suit, and we sang the Easter hymn."

BASEBALL NEWS

with a big ball on his hand. Kruger, secured from Akron by New Castle, is playing short for the Nocks. Porter is back in the game at second. The absence of both Davis and Woodruff cripples the New Castle team considerably.

A number of O. & P. clubs have been trying to secure Duke Seavious from the Columbus club. This team refuses to let him get away. He is being used as utility man. Youngstown was a strong bidder.

Umpire Arrie will line Bill Smith no more.

The sporting editor of the Advocate wishes to acknowledge the receipt of a letter from E. D. Hare of the Detroit Journal, extending congratulations on the Molders' good work in the O. and P. circuit. Mr. Hare states that the citizens of the beautiful City of Straits are delirious with joy and are celebrating the advent of Detroit's landing in first place in the American league race.

The championship in women's doubles at Chicago yesterday was won by Miss Neely and Miss Steever. The score was 6-2, 6-3.

The Millers wallowed the Mud Hens in the first game of a double header at Toledo yesterday, the score resulting 13 to 9. The Hens got their dander up and retaliated in a second game putting one over the Millers with a score of 9 to 2.

The New Castle Herald says the Newark outfield is the best in the league. Of that there is no question.

Al Schweitzer says Henry Drake will make the best umpire in the league before the season is over.

Eddie Murphy quit Akron because of his bad arm. He has enough mazzuma to live on without playing baseball.

Wilbur Goode's puzzling manner of shooting the ball over to Schwartz when everybody thought it was coming to Mickey, had the Newark bunch guessing. Wilbur caught no less than four runners off first.

Abbott, Newark's right fielder, received word just before the game started to the effect that the long-looked-for cork had arrived at his home in Coshocott. He immediately made tracks for the depot and Manager Berryhill sent Smith to turn when the game started.

Bill Rose, a Cleveland boy, righted up at 1-2 game prepared to help Bobby Hart out with the arbitrating. But President Morton didn't need him, as he got into communication yesterday afternoon with Bill Sump, an old time ball player, and Sump arrived in time for the game. He worked on the bases, and gave satisfaction. Sump played at Lancaster three years ago and after being injured, finished the season umpiring. This season he has been playing in the Texas league, and broke his finger in a game there a few days ago.

Schweitzer had a busy day in center field. Most of his six chances were difficult ones, but he accepted them all without the least sign of a wobble.

Pearce, the beautiful receiver for the Molders, is not being worked much. Good idea to save good timber.—New Castle Herald.

The sporting editor of the New Castle Herald says Rube Bowers takes auto rides regularly. He certainly is fortunate. Rube was out speeding the other evening and came to a creek with the bridge broken down. He couldn't get across so he just sat down and thought it over.

Bill Smink is getting a good deal of kidding down East. Some fan asked him yesterday if it was true that if he carried a revolver and stated that if it was he had better use it and save some one else the trouble of killing him.

Latham's plans for the future have not been announced. He has been following baseball for years and this is the first time he has ever suffered from a case of pink-slipped.

GET-AWAY DAY AT GLENVILLE RACE TRACK

Cleveland, Aug. 3.—Get-away day was marked by a good day's program of which the first race was the feature. The race was a little off from the heavy rain of the night before and a high wind blew out of the west.

There were four starters in the first race. Baron Grattan drew the pole, with Angus Pointer scoring in the second position. The track was very much to the liking of the Pointer gelding and he won the first heat after Grattan had set the pace to the three-quarter pole, the time be-ties to fight Britt," said Gans.

Battling Nelson is out of it, so far as the foremost light weights are concerned. To many ring followers it looks as though the durable Dan has shot his bolts. The heating given him by Gans last Labor day at Goldfield, Nev., took the steam out of Battling, ring experts who saw the Britt-Nelson clash believe.

Gans gleefully announces that Nelson is out of consideration for a match for the championship. Since their memorable fight at Goldfield, in which the little negro was badly used, Gans has had it in for the Dane.

Britt's victory is popular on the east, where Nelson was never liked.

The more fighting there is in Ohio the better the chances are of the Democrats in the next national election. There are a great many Democrats in Ohio, too; it is not long since a Democratic Governor was elected by a majority of 50,000, or thereabouts. We are not counting the State in the Democratic column, but a pretty hot fight between the two Republican factions over Foraker and Taft personally, and over tariff revision, would have some effect elsewhere, and it would not increase the Republican vote in the Buckeye State.—Philadelphia Record.

WM. LIPP HURT NEAR HOMER, O.

Fell From Wagon and Heavy Wheel Passed Over His Head—Is Now in Hospital.

Mt. Vernon, Aug. 3.—Wm. Lipp, a workman employed by the Logan Natural Gas company at Homer, was terribly injured south of the city Friday, by a wagon wheel passing over his head.

Mr. Lipp and a number of his fellow workmen, who had been spending the night in town, started for Homer on a log wagon. When about a mile south of the city, Lipp fell off the wagon and one of the rear wheels passed over his face, mauling it almost to pulp. His nose was broken and mashed, his mouth was badly cut and also his cheeks were cut and bruised in a terrible manner.

Lipp was dazed by the accident, and when his friends picked him up he fought them and it was necessary to tie him on the wagon to enable them to bring him back to this city.

When they arrived here, he was taken to the office of Dr. C. L. Harmer, where his wounds were given attention. He was afterwards removed to the Mt. Vernon hospital.

SPOONFUL OF HIS BRAIN REMOVED

But the Boy is Alive and Nearly Recovered—Memory as to Past Events a Blank.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 3.—Can a human being actually lose a part of his brain substance without suffering any serious loss of that mysterious thing called "the mind?" This question has had a vast interest for the scientific workers of the last quarter of a century. It is given fresh interest by the case of Cecil Mullins, an 11-year-old boy, who is now a patient at the St. Louis City hospital. Six weeks ago this boy was taken to the hospital with his skull badly crushed in the region of the left temple. A sharp broken bone had been driven inward not only tearing a ragged hole through the delicate brain covering, but actually burying itself an inch deeper in the brain itself, cutting and bruising the fine tissues over a circular space as large as a silver dollar.

Dr. J. W. Shankland performed an operation immediately. Then Cecil was put to bed to die. The case was considered almost hopeless, but he lived, and is declared by Dr. Shankland to be practically out of danger. That is a part of the wonder. Another part is the fact that in two operations and in the care of the injury, no less than a teaspoonful of the brain has been taken from the boy's head. This strange wound to the brain is rapidly healing. Cecil appears all right, bright and cheerful.

The wound was found to be in that part of the left side of the brain which years of experimenting has pretty nearly identified as the "speech zone." Injuries to this "zone" show various effects, according to their location. Sometimes the injured person will retain his understanding of words, but will lose the power to speak. A strange feature of the boy's case is that he cannot remember books and incidents that a few weeks ago were entirely familiar to him. "Robinson Crusoe" and fairy books are entirely new to him.

BRUCE GAUMER ILL

The editor of this paper, Bruce B. Gaumer, has been confined to his bed the past week with inflammation of the bowels. Last Thursday he drove to the northern part of the county on business and after eating some canned beef at Richwood, which was tainted, became seriously ill. He went to a physician's office and was given some medicine, but it did not relieve him of his suffering. He drove home through the hot sun, and a physician of this city has been since attending him. He was somewhat better yesterday, and expects to be able to be up and around in a few days. He has been a very sick man, and his mother, Mrs. T. M. Gaumer of Urbana, has been helping to care for him. She returned home Tuesday evening. Miss Maude Woodward, a trained nurse of this city, is now helping to care for Mr. Gaumer.—Union County (Marysville) Journal.

THE END OF THE ROAD.

GRIGGS OUTING WAS A SUCCESS AS IS USUAL

The annual outing of the employees of the Griggs store is now a thing of the past. Friday, they were all at Black Hand enjoying themselves, boating, bathing, fishing and eating, and this Saturday morning they are all at their places as if nothing unusual had happened.

They all report having had a fine time and everything passed off as scheduled, and there were no accidents to mar the pleasure of the outing.

There was a match game of volley ball played by the carpet team, captained by Mr. Roy Shirer, against the Domestic team, captained by Mr. Edw. Pease, and the carpet sweepers "win" by a score, three out of four.

Fishing was also tried with varying success; some of the picnickers having very fair luck, while others, with the fisherman's proverbial luck, would have gone hungry if it were not for the bountiful supply of eatables provided by the hosts, Scott, Griggs Company.

Mr. William Griffiths, the carpet expert of the Scott-Griggs Co., had an unusual experience with a large catfish, which experience he related as follows. Calling the reporter by name he said:

"You will remember that there was sent here about twelve years ago by the Government Fish commission a large number of channel cat fish, about 9 inches long, which were planted in the Licking river near Black Hand, and each one was marked with a small brass tag, giving size, and date of planting; this tag was about the size of a gold dollar, and was fastened to each fish by a ring through the fin. Up to Friday there is no record of any of these fish being caught in these waters, but as I like to fish and had some good bait. I went up above the rock to try my luck on the fanny tribe. I fished for an hour with no success whatever, and all at once when about ready to quit, my line ran out with the reel a-singing merrily. Of course I was excited, who wouldn't be with a bite like that? After awhile I straightened out on the fish and with great difficulty and help of some of the boys that heard my appeals for aid, I landed a catfish that tips the scales this morning at 9 pounds.

"Upon examining my prize carefully I noticed a brass tag about the size of a silver dollar attached to the under fin, which read: 'Planted Aug. 2, 1895—9 inches long.' "Now there is nothing remarkable about the fish growing that large in that length of time, but that tag had on it concentric circles, showing that it had grown right along with the fish and from half an inch when it was fastened to the fish in 1895, it had grown to easily an inch and a half in diameter in 12 years. "I've a customer waiting, excuse me," said Mr. Griffiths—and he disappeared.

Those that enjoyed the outing were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mazey, Miss Thelma Mazey, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Griffiths, Mr. and Mrs. Nez Davis, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hohl, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pease, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Guckert, Mr. and Mrs. John Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Will Weber, Mr. H. Hughes, Mr. R. Beebe, Mr. I. Pletcher, Mr. R. Wives are still obtained by purchase in some parts of Russia. In the district of Kamyschin, on the Volga, for example, this is practically the only way in which marriages are brought about. The price of a pretty girl from a well-to-do family ranges from $100 to $200, and in special cases a much higher sum is obtained. In the villages the lowest price is about $25.

Sam, a negro servant of a Harrisburg family, is very ambitious to appear well informed on all subjects. His master had installed electric lights throughout the house and was explaining the workings of the fluid to Sam as follows:

"You see, the whole thing comes from the dynamo and goes into the wires and then into the lights. Now do you understand?"

"Yes, sah," said Sam. "I understand all 'bout dem dynamos and other things, but what I wants to know is how do the kerosene squirt thoo dem wicks?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Immediately following the regular bill last evening the amateur contest was held, and was enjoyed by the big audience. The winner of the first prize was the comedy team of Fassett & Davis, and their work was far above the average. The second prize went to Mr. Carl Reynard. He has one of the best tenor voices in the city. The third prize was awarded to Miss Jones, a very young lady, who has one of the sweetest voices yet heard at the Casino. The big feature of course, was "Sweetheart" whose many friends were there to give her their strong support.

The Cleveland Press has the following about Miss Ethel Huston, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Huston of Newark:

"Jos. ---------------------

Akron, Ohio, Aug. 3.—Although they were able to glean only four hits off Joe Locke's delivery, "Cap" East's men managed to collect three of the quartet of bingles in one inning yesterday afternoon, giving them the only run of the game.

After East had popped up a little fly in the seventh, which Wratten nabbed hungrily, Schwartz wasted a sizzling drive at the same game, which Erv ducked away from. Broderick popped to Havel, and with Strood up, it didn't look very cheerful from an Akron standpoint. But Teddy unwrapped a surprise package, slapping a clean double over Lefty Snyder's head out in left and Schwartz scored.

Mickey LaLonge, the next man to face Locke, plastered another clean drive to left, and Teddy came tearing past the third corner and made a noble effort to score. But "Lefty" winged the ball in, true as a die, straight into "Bunnie" Pearce's mitt, and the big backstop clapped it into Strood as he slid for the plate. Although Snyder made a great throw and Pearce didn't wait a second in getting the ball onto Teddy, it looked to the spectators as though he was safe, and an awful howl went up when he announced his decision. The visitors were never dangerous until the final inning, when, with two down, "Red" Havel singled to left. "Scotty" Winters rolled one down to Broderick and Matty whipped the ball to East at second, hoping to nip Havel at second. But Sump, who was working on the bases called "Red" safe. Big Gygil, who had already connected safely twice and been robbed out of another hit by Broderick's lightning fielding, nudged one out over second which looked like a sure bingle. But Capt. Walter came sailing across behind the bag, came sailing across behind the bag, came sailing across behind the bag, and stabbed the ball with one hand and tossed it to Broderick at second just the merest fraction of a second ahead of Winters. It was indeed a close shave. The score:

LINE-UP OF BROOKLYN FOR SUNDAY'S GAME

Business Manager Frank Maurath Friday evening received the following telegram from Manager Ebbets of the Brooklyn Nationals, in reference to making arrangements for the team's accommodations while in this city and also giving the Brooklyn line-up for the game:
Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 3.—Yesterday's letter received. We leave here at 8 o'clock Sunday morning; arrive via Pennsylvania limited at 6:10. Please arrange for bus and hotel accordingly. Think you should start game promptly at 3 o'clock. Call me on phone at 6 o'clock tonight at Hotel Annex Pittsburg, that there may be no misunderstanding. The batting order will be: Alperman, Casey, Lumley, Burch, Jordan, Maloney, Lewis, Bergin or Ritter, Bell or Rucker.
C. H. EBBETS.

Mr. Maurath talked over the long distance to the Brooklyn manager last evening and informed him that all arrangements had been made to take care of the visitors. Everything is ready for their reception, and a great game can be expected.

Umbrella Covers made to order at Parkinson's. 7-31-west.

It is estimated that 100,000,000 bushels of wheat will be available for export from the northwestern provinces of Canada at the close of this year's harvest.

SAME TEAM THAT FACED PIRATES TO PLAY HERE

That President Ebbets of the Brooklyn Nationals will not take any chances and will do his best to capture Sunday's game with the Molders, can be seen from the following dispatch which appeared in the Pittsburg Press this morning:
"Tomorrow the Brooklyn club will go to Newark, O., there to do battle with the leaders in the race for the O. and P. League championship. The team will leave here Sunday morning at 9 o'clock and President Ebbets has arranged to have the Limited stop at Newark at 6:05 o'clock in the evening, so that the return trip may be made the same day."

"We are not going to take any chances with Newark," said Mr. Ebbets last night, "but will have the same team that faced the Pirates this afternoon. Bell or Rucker will pitch and either Ritter or Berger will do the catching."

PHELLIS TROPHY WILL REMAIN IN NEWARK

DETROIT LEADS AMERICAN LEAGUE BY ONE POINT

The Detroit team is in first place in the great race for the American league pennant. The cohorts of Hughie Jennings, the scrappy manager of the Tigers, accomplished the difficult task of displacing the world's champions in the standing by winning both games of a double header from Washington yesterday while Chicago was being beaten in New York. So great a lead had the White Sox, however, before the fatal slump of the present Eastern trip that Detroit, despite the double victory, is but a fraction ahead of the champions. The race is one of the sensations of the baseball world, for the Athletics and Cleveland have still to be figured. The Athletics are but 10 points behind Chicago, while Cleveland is still within striking distance of the others.

The Tigers' percentage is .607, the White Sox .606 and Philadelphia .596.

CUTTING DOWN EXPENSE ACCOUNT

Having hit the cellar, the Sharon club has set about to go one better and knock the bottom out of the cellar floor. The first step was taken Thursday when Geo. Mathay, one of the best outfielders and hitters in the league, was released. Mathay was loaned to Sharon by Akron. He returns to Akron.

A cheaper team is the order of the Sharon stockholders. Baseball, never a paying proposition at Sharon, has been poorer than usual this year. The club's only ambition now is to finish the season, which will probably be the last one for the town in company as fast as the O. and P.

Akron will probably put Mathay to work in right field.

SMINK RESENTS INSULT

Umpire Bill Smink has his nerve with him all the time, also the roly-poly arbitrator has a deep-seated idea that he is as good a citizen as comes down the pike and, though he is an umpire, sees no reason why he should be insulted any sooner than any one else.

"You're the rottenest umpire ever" said a street car conductor while a car with portly Bill standing on the run board was waiting after Thursday's game at Willis park at Youngstown.

"Were you speaking to me?" asked Smink quietly.

"Yes, I was speaking to you," was replied.

"Do you mean what you say?"

"Sure I do."

Smink alighted from the car. "I am not to be insulted any more than any one else, and if I am given a square deal I will take it out of you," he announced in even tones as he squared off to use his fists.

The conductor picked up a big cin-

IN THE CITY AFTER PLAYERS

Louis Heilbroner, advance scout of the Cincinnati Reds, of the National league, was a visitor in the city today and may remain over to see the Molders in action tomorrow.

Negotiations have been pending between Hanlon and the club directors for some time, and the hustling manager of the Reds sent Heilbroner here to talk over the matter of trying to secure several of the local players. He thinks Newark has about as good timber as can be found in any of the minor league clubs, but would not commit himself as to whom he was after, although it is a well known fact that Cincinnati has been trying to land Pearce, it being only a question of price. They also have their eyes on the Molders' pitching staff and "we" may have to part with one of them, but neither Pearce nor any one of the twirlers will leave until the season ends, or at least so the officials say.

Mr. Heilbroner is a member of the Order of Elks and is stopping at the Jackson. In case he decides to remain over he will be entertained at the Elks' club rooms this evening.

Partition Proceedings.

Probate Judge Brister decided the case of George Davidson vs. Allen W. Davidson and others Saturday. The plaintiff filed his petition in the probate court asking for partition of 70 acres of land in Hartford township, this county, as one of the heirs of John Davidson, deceased, some 22 or 23 years ago, and the parcel in controversy was the dower set off to the widow during her life time. She died recently and it is now sought to partition her dower. The application was resisted by Allen W. Davidson and other heirs of John Davidson, who claimed that first, the land described in the petition had not been properly described, and second, that all the heirs of John Davidson had entered into a written contract 22 years ago by which the widow was to remain in possession of the dower during her life and at her death the land was to be sold at public auction and the proceeds equally divided. The court held in deciding, first, that either the old original description or of one parcel should be used or that the land should be offered in parcels and then as a whole. Second, that the heirs had not sustained their contention, that the land at the death of the widow must be sold at public auction and the proceeds divided; that the contract if made, was solely for the benefit of the widow, and no mutual consideration moved among the heirs, and that the plaintiff was therefore entitled to partition as prayed for in his petition, subject to the first requirement of the order.

Protect Your Complexion From the Summer Sun

The summer girl's heritage—a coat of tan and a crop of freckles—while indicating a healthy outdoor life, do not materially enhance the beauty of the complexion. Freckles more than tan are particularly annoying to women. Here is a simple preparation, easily made at home, which will do more than anything else to remove the ravages of the summer sun.

Obtain at your drug store Rose Water, 2 ounces; Cologne Spirits, 1 ounce; Epitome (skin food), 1 ounce. Put the Epitome in a pint of hot water (not boiling), and when dissolved, strain and let cool. Then add the Rose Water and Cologne Spirits.

This wash is absolutely harmless and you will find that it leaves the skin soft and smooth. In fact, many women use it in place of powder—particularly in hot weather when powder is so noticeable.

BOSTON SHOT UP UNEXPECTEDLY

By an Avenging Party of New York Chinese.

SCENE IN CHINESE QUARTERS

The Avenging Visitors Disappear as Mysteriously as They Came—Supposed to Represent a Secret Society. A Few Suspects Arrested by the Police, Without Proof.

Boston, Aug. 3.—A band of New York Chinamen, greatly enraged against their mortal enemies of the rival "On Leong Tong" society, swooped down on a narrow alley in Chinatown and with drawn revolvers opened fire on a Chinese crowd, killing three and injuring seven. The invaders are supposed to belong to the desperate "Hep Sing Tong" society. At the first volley fired, the Chinamen rushed for their quarters, stumbling over one another in their haste to reach shelter. The Hep Sing Tong men chased their victims into their own doorways and shot them down as they rushed up stairs or into side rooms. Then casting away their guns, the strange visitors ran from the Chinese quarter, most of them escaping the police.

The dead: Wong Su Jung, 50, restaurant proprietor of Chinatown; Chin Let, 35, laundryman, South End; Chin Mon Quin, 48, merchant, Chinatown. Of the injured Lee Kar 24; Shang Gu 25, and Jong Gon, probably were fatally injured. The others are in a serious condition.

Immediately after the shooting one of the Hep Sing Tong men from New York was captured by a policeman as he was running away. The man gave the name of Nim Sing. He was dressed in American clothes. Later an officer at the south station took into custody Hong Woon, 34, of New York, whose hands were powder stained. Both prisoners are charged with manslaughter.

The shooting occurred in Oxford place, in the center of Chinatown, where about 50 Chinamen were smoking in the open air.

That the visitors shot with careful accuracy was apparent from the fact that each of the three men killed was shot through the heart. Fully 50 shots were fired.

The trouble had been anticipated for more than a week. About 10 days ago nearly a dozen Chinamen, who were all strangers, came to Boston and rented rooms near Chinatown. The police were notified of the fact by Boston Chinamen, who feared trouble. Special details of police were at once placed on duty in the Chinese quarter, and the strangers suddenly disappeared.

The trouble is attributed by some to the shooting which occurred in Philadelphia recently, for which it is said Boston Chinamen were partially blamed. It is thought the Chinamen who did the shooting came from New York to punish the On Leong Tong for the Philadelphia outbreak.

HOLY JUMPERS PRODUCE THE GIRL

Prisoner in Luck.

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 3.—For embezzling $26 from Henry E. Wilson, Clarence Savage, 22, escapes serving 12 years in the Wisconsin state reformatory. Young Savage was sent to the reformatory three years ago for a term of from 2 to 15 years, and was out on parole when he embezzled the money. He entered a plea of guilty to the embezzlement charge, and Judge Monahan of the municipal court announced a sentence of one year at Waupun. When the young man completes his prison term he will be free, according to the opinion of the judge. Savage thus avoids serving out his time at the reformatory. A longing for an automobile trip is the excuse given by Savage for stealing the $26.

Steamer Aground.

IS BORAX USED IN DEVILED HAM? IS THE QUESTION

Washington, Aug. 3.—The bureau of animal industry of the department of agriculture has ordered from Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic, samples of the shipments of deviled ham held up at that port on account of the presence of borax in the product. The department already has inspected samples of like products in this country from which the Buenos Ayres consignment was taken. These show only one one-thousandth of 1 per cent borax, and officials believe that the deviled ham held up in Argentina is of the same quality. This amount of borax never has been taken into consideration by the United States inspectors, and in fact the salt used in the product very frequently would contain that amount or more of borax, and only the most delicate apparatus will detect this slight trace. Dr. Melvin, chief of the bureau of animal industry, believes that the Argentine authorities have ordered the consignment held up not because there is a dangerous amount of borax present, but because of a desire to exclude shipments of deviled ham wherever possible.

REWARD

Given by Government For Valuable Charts, Miss Hall Wants to Return.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 3.—Miss Annie Hall of Cincinnati wishes to return to the government the $15,000 which a grateful nation paid to her father, an Arctic explorer, for the manuscripts and charts he made of the frozen north. Information that Miss Hall wishes to thus dispose of the money has been conveyed to United States District Attorney McPherson and Thomas Darby, assistant to the government's counsel, the latter of whom, by a coincidence, also is administrator of the estate to which the money belongs. Miss Hall called at the government building and had a long conversation with the district attorney. She then made the offer to return the money to the government. Mr. Darby, as representative of the estate, contends the money can not be paid back to the government without consent of all the heirs. As Miss Hall and her brother are contesting the administration of the estate, an agreement is not regarded as likely.

HUNTER ELECTED BUT HAD OPPOSITION

Tulsa, I. T., Aug. 3.—The Republican state convention adjourned after electing Charles Hunter, sergeant of Rough Riders under Theodore Roosevelt, chairman of the Republican state central committee. Although he was the choice of Governor Frantz, yet Hunter was bitterly opposed by a large number of delegates. Indeed the strong effort to elect Hunter was the feature of the convention and caused its long sitting, there being no sharp contest for any nomination and little disagreement over the platform.

Troops and Morcos.

Potter on Social Unrest.

Chautauqua, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Bishop Henry Potter of New York spoke on the "Church and Social Unrest" here. The causes for the social unrest of the country, Bishop Potter said, are popular education, the industrial revolution and extravagance. He declared that there can be no more righteous arraignment of the church today than upon its indifference to the physical, mental and social needs of the working people. The church should be related by profound sympathy to social problems, said the bishop.

HAYWOOD

WARMLY GREETED BY CROWDS AT STOPPING PLACES ON WAY HOME.

Even His Mother Was Nearly Trampled by His Enthusiastic Admirers.

Salt Lake City, Aug. 3.—Carrying his invalid wife in his arms, William D. Haywood, secretary of the Western Federation of Miners, en route to Denver, stepped from an Oregon Short line train into a crowd which had gathered to meet him. In its eagerness to see the principal in the famous trial at Boise, the mob almost overwhelmed the little party of travelers. Mrs. Caruthers, Haywood's mother, was swept away from the waiting carriage. She was rescued by her son and the latter, after shaking a few of the hundreds of outstretched hands, thanked everybody and started with his family for the home of his sister, Mrs. James Killen. With Haywood came his wife, mother, two daughters and other relatives who met him in Ogden; John H. Murphy, attorney for the Western Federation of Miners, who is dying from tuberculosis, and Dr. Biserow, Murphy's physician. On his arrival here the patient was so ill that he was taken to Holy Cross hospital, as fear is expressed that he will not live to reach Denver.

French Canal Project.

Paris, Aug. 3.—The minister of public works has approved the project of the department of bridges and roads for the construction of a canal to connect the valley of the Rhone with the port of Marseilles. As the hills separating the Rhone from Marseilles are too high to surmount by locks, the project involves a tunnel seven kilometers in length, at a cost of $6,500,000. This tunnel, measured by the amount of dirt excavated, will be the largest in the world. The width of the canal, permitting two barges to pass at any point, together with the tow-paths on either side, will be 66 feet, and the height will be 42 feet. The total cost of the canal will be $15,000,000.

NOTHING DOING IN ORE STRIKE

The Beginning of the End Believed to Be in Sight.

NO NEED FOR TROOPS THERE

Notwithstanding Threats of Violence, It Is Thought Everything Will Soon Be Running as Usual—Ore Daily Coming Out of the Range and Being Handled at the Dock.

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 3.—The impression prevails among the officials of the steel corporation and state officers that the trouble in the ore region and at the docks is nearly at an end, though rumors of threatening trouble still continue. Notwithstanding these rumors, it is hoped that everything will be running along as usual within a week or 10 days. Trains of ore are coming down daily on the Duluth and Iron Range, Duluth Missabe and Northern and the Great Northern to Two Harbors, Oneota and Allouez. The train crews are not complete and it will be several days before they will be. The forces on the ore docks are still lacking the regular number of men for the reason that when the strike was in its first stages many left to seek employment elsewhere. The docks are closely guarded and thus far there has not been the slightest sign of disturbance. The fact that the ore dock strike has been ended paves the way for the end of the miners' strike, for as long as the corporation is able to ship ore it is not believed there will be any further interruption of traffic.

The promulgation of governor Johnson's proclamation had a salutary effect and most of the strikers are convinced that if the rules are laid down by Governor Johnson are willfully violated he will send troops here at once. Arrangements have been made whereby two local companies of state guards may be summoned on moments notice.

Immigration Commissioner.

Constantinople, Aug. 3.—Congressman William Bennett, of New York, one of the American immigration commissioners who are in Europe to make a thorough investigation of emigration conditions, arrived here after having visited Palestine and Syria. The majority of the councilors have refused to permit the erection of new water-power works for the supply of electricity to the surrounding district.

All Bids Rejected.

Washington, Aug. 3.—The navy department rejected all bids submitted for the construction of a drydock at Bremerton, on Puget sound, because they were not within the limit of the appropriation.

Peru Makes a Change.

Lima, Peru, Aug. 3.—The government has established bonded storehouses at Callao, and installed the warrant system of putting merchandise in bond.

CHARTER

May Be Lost to Southern Railroad For Violation of Provisions of Franchise.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 3.—Announcement was made by Secretary of State Frank N. Julian that he had revoked the franchise of the Southern Railway company because it has removed a case from the circuit court of Talladega county to the United States circuit court at Birmingham. This action is in violation of the two outlaw acts passed by the state legislature last winter, each of which provided that such removal should be punishable by a revocation of the charter of the offending railroad. One of these laws was declared unconstitutional by United States Judge Thomas G. Jones, but the other has never been enjoined by the federal courts.

Million Dollar Fire.

Tombahawk, Wis., Aug. 3.—Fire which started in one of the buildings of the United States Leather company laid the plant in ruins. The plant was one of the tanneries absorbed by the big combination several years ago. The loss is about $1,000,000.

The Bishop of London has ruled that the Church of England, not being responsible for civil marriages, a clergyman of that church can officiate at the wedding of a divorced person whose previous marriage took place in a registry office.

NEW YORK'S NEW FIRE BOAT.

There is such a long stretch of docks and water front belonging to the city of New York and fires are such a frequent occurrence there that fireboats have grown to be quite as important a feature as engines. These fireboats are built like tugs and they are able to go very fast, darting in and out among the river craft like veritable firebugs. These boats are equipped with very fine apparatus, and are able to be of great assistance when a conflagration starts on any dock or very near the shore in the bay. There are several of these fireboats operating in New York.

JOHNSTOWN TOWN

Man Dies After Brief Illness—Man Stole Canvas Used to Protect Graves—Other News.

Johnstown, O., Aug. 3.—Otis Bush, married, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bush, died at his home about a mile and half east of town Tuesday morning about 3 o'clock after a very brief illness of two days, aged 20 years. He was apparently in good health on Friday and spent the day in the village. He took quite ill Saturday morning and on Sunday morning Dr. Rutledge saw an operation should be performed at once. Dr. Baldwin of Columbus was called about 10 o'clock a. m., and together with a professional nurse made a hurry auto trip to Mr. Bush's residence, reaching there about noon, and operated upon the patient, finding adhesions and great obstructions to the bowels. No hope however, was entertained for his recovery. The deceased was at the hospital at Columbus early in the morning and underwent an operation for appendicitis which time until a day or so before his death he seemed to be getting the very best of himself. He was a native of Johnstown, and was a farmer and mother, four brothers and five sisters. His funeral was held Wednesday at the M. E. church in Concord at 10 o'clock, officiating, Rev. Fulton of Morral, O. Interment in Concord cemetery.

On last Friday evening the canvas used at the cemetery to protect open graves from rain, and which when stolen, was spread upon a partly built had stack near the cemetery, was stolen by a young man who after being caught gave his name as Robert Erow, of Mt. Vernon, O. During the Saturday following the authorities here got trace of the thief and had him picked up in Newark and held until Marshal Dressback of this place could take him in charge. He was brought back here Saturday evening and placed in the village prison until Monday morning when he was taken before the mayor where he pleaded guilty to the charge. The mayor fined him $30 and costs amounting in all to $44.85. A girl was with Erow when arrested and was evidently taking her summer outing. The canvas was found in a cornfield below Granville. The young man will be remembered by many here as having been thrown from a buggy about three years ago against a barbed wire fence near Tida Green and being so badly cut that Dr. Mattingly was compelled to take ten stitches on his limb.

Miss Minnie Ashbrook of Marshalltown, Iowa, visited Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Ashbrook. She left Saturday morning for a several days' visit with relatives at Pataskala and other places south of here. She will return to Johnstown at a later date.

At the meeting of White Shield Temple Tuesday evening it was decided by vote, that the Eastern Star and Holt Rebekah lodges be invited to join them in their picnic at Buckeye Lake August 8. Come and enjoy the day together.

The little three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Kasson who is just recovering from a broken limb, drank some of the oil which had been prepared and set out for the Thursday of last week. Dr. Collins was called at once, and thoroughly washed the deadly stuff from her stomach. Save just a little sickness and a great scare on the part of the family nothing further resulted. Luckily it was discovered at once and timely aid given by the physician.

C. S. Jackson, business manager of Bliss College, Newark, was in the village working in the interest of the school Tuesday. He reports a great demand for young men and women educated for business life. The demand on them from Columbus and surrounding cities for competent graduates exceeds their supply. Honesty, quality and common sense is their motto.

The July stock sale held Friday was well attended, yet not so many people were in town as at the June sale. These sales were started about 15 years ago and have been so well advertised that for 25 miles in all directions know that on the last Friday of each month Johnstown holds a stock sale. The traders do not bother as they did years ago, but the best buyers from all the nearby cities and towns are regularly in attendance and the people know that they can get the best prices for their horses at Johnstown.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

TIME IS THE TEST.

The Testimony of Newark People Stand the Test.

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Newark people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

F. Lisey, commission merchant, of 39 South Fourth street, Newark, O., says:

"I have had no occasion to use any kidney medicine since 1896, and therefore think more than ever of Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me eight years ago, and I made a statement for publication at that time recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. This statement I will repeat for the benefit of other sufferers from kidney troubles."

"For several years I was distressed and annoyed with pain in the back just over the kidneys, and whenever I stooped or tried to lift anything the trouble became acute. Treatment had failed to bring me relief and at last I laid aside the prescriptions I had been using and went to Crayton's drug store for a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. The use of this remedy proved so effective that my back has been sound ever since I used Doan's Kidney Pills eight years ago. I therefore have no hesitation in recommending them to others."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

A RURAL RHAPSODY.

Oh, take me to the country, where the atmosphere is pure
And where I used to sizzle in the fields of new mown hay!
I long to loaf about and take the "back to nature" cure
(But I hate to hit the gravel, and a fare I cannot pay).
I want to wake o' mornings and get out the lark to view
As he pierces the cerulean, the deep, the vasty blue.
Oh, that I might go strolling where the swaying stubbles grow,
Where the daisies nod serenely and the morning glories blow,
Where the children chase the gopher to his hole beneath the rock
And the sweat is on the farmer as he builds the barley shock.

So let me leave this desert of the dreary, weary east
And seek with joy the sylvan, shady prairies of the west.
Where you see a stately poplar every mile or so at least
And where I used to labor at my governor's behest.
It's ho to roam in bosky dell (whatever that may be),
To see the long horned mulley cow a-mooing o'er the lea,
To skip along the dusty lanes and pluck the hollyhock
And hear at eve the lusty boys a-yelling at the stock.

Oh, where's the lass I used to woo, fair haired and rosy cheeked?
(Grown fat perhaps and busy raising hens and garden truck)
The rustic gate we leaned upon, whose rusty hinges squeaked,
Shuts in perhaps the prancing colts that leap and run amuck.
My mind's eye sees that lassie, grown to winsome womanhood,
Her tresses wildly flying as she cuts the kindling wood,
Or eke perhaps perspiring as, arrayed in kitchen apron,
She plies the wooden paddle on the butter in the crock.

With sadness I remember how the barley beards would creep
Adown my neck and up my legs and rob me of my sleep.
Fond memory brings to me the day when at the swimming pool
A snapping turtle punished me for staying out of school.
I chase the reminiscences when I remember how
I raised the dust while fleeing from an irritated cow
And how I used to feel a thrill that was a corker when My father got the hatchet to decapitate the hen.

—Ferd G. Christgau in Record-Herald.

Story of the Meteorite.

Miss Dorothea Klumpke, the astronomer, was talking about the difficulties and intricacies that astronomy presents to the lay mind.

"For instance," she said, smiling, "there is the well known story of the meteorite that fell on a Vermont farm in 1890."

"It was a valuable meteorite, and the landlord at once stepped up and claimed it. 'All minerals and metals on the land belong to me,' he said. 'That's in the lease.'"

"But the tenant demurred. 'This meteorite,' he said, 'wasn't on the farm, you must remember, when the lease was drawn up.'"

"The landlord perceived the justice of that claim. He thought a moment. Then he said decisively, 'I claim her as flying game.'"

"But the tenant was ready for him. 'She's got neither wings nor feathers,' he said; 'therefore as ground game she's mine.'"

"They continued their argument, and in the heat of it a revenue officer, arriving with a truck, proceeded to put the meteorite aboard. 'I claim her for the government,' he said, 'as an article introduced into this country without payment of duty.'"—Rochester Herald.

Only Sure Way.

"What, then," asked the new clerk "do you consider the best method of keeping books?"

A Last Resort.

"I hear you've got the agency in this town for that patent bucket. Why don't you push it?"

Where Political Contests Will Be Fought to a Finish.

TO PRECEDE STATE CONVENTIONS

Two Presidential Declarations in One Week Is Not So Slow For Ohio Politics In Midsummer — The Annual Confab at Sandusky — Victory For Ohio Railway Commission.

Columbus, O., Aug. 3.—Two declarations for president in one week from opposite political camps show just how hot Ohio politics can get in hot weather and at a time, too, when there is really nothing to warm up about.

Instantly following the action of the state central committee of Ohio Republicans in the adoption of a resolution, by a vote of 15 to 6, endorsing William H. Taft for president came the announcement from Democratic headquarters that William J. Bryan would accept another nomination for president, and would be entitled to Ohio's vote in the national convention, as pledged by the state convention last year.

These two pronouncements may be regarded as the real opening of state preliminaries to the national convention next year. According to proper procedure, no state nor district convention of either party may be held regularly for the selection of delegates until after the issuance of the call by the national committee for the national convention. Some districts may disregard this formality and have their convention sooner, but it is certain that neither the Republican nor the Democratic state conventions will be held next year until after the time, place and purpose of such conventions are officially announced by the respective national committees. This will mean that the state conventions will be held earlier than usual, probably late in April or during May. Before that time it is quite probable that most of the congressional conventions will be held, at least for the selection of delegates; congressional nominations may be deferred to adjourned sessions. This discloses that the state conventions will not be held in time to lay down the law and instructions to district conventions.

Last year the state Republican convention ventured no expression of choice for president in 1908, so that the action of the state committee is the only criterion for the district conventions, if it may be called a criterion. The state Democratic convention, however, went on record for Bryan, and that may be certified as the criterion for district Democratic conventions next year.

Notwithstanding all which, district conventions are as independent in their scope of action as any other party convention, and it is pretty certain that the district conventions in Ohio will act pretty much according to how they find the state of the Union at the time they are held.

The legislative reunion at Cedar Point, ending Saturday, was an occasion for much political confabulation. Outside the set speeches on pertinent topics there was no lack of discussion in little groups about just how it was, is or will be. The presence of Senators Foraker and Dick, Governor Harris, Mayor Tom L. Johnson and others more or less prominent in state affairs gave the reunion more than usual interest and importance.

Governor Harris made the trip to Sandusky merely the beginning of an important official tour, accompanied by Mrs. Harris. Beside the reunion his itinerary included a visit Saturday to the state's home for soldiers and sailors; Sunday at the state rifle range and military camp near Port Clinton; Monday with Vice President Fairbanks at the dedication of the monument Victory at Put-In-Bay. Tuesday the state encampment Spanish War Veterans at Defiance and Wednesday the Toledo hospital for insane.

In an important decision handed down by the interstate commerce commission at Washington, the state of Ohio through the railway commission was sustained in its contention against the Hocking Valley and the Wheeling & Lake Erie roads. It was charged against these roads that they were discriminating against the owners and operators of coal mines along the routes of these respective roads. Both cases were similar and they were taken up together and argued at the same time. The decision is a distinct victory for these owners and operators, and by it the railway companies are obliged to provide cars of such description as are required by the complainants.

The ruling of the Ohio commission which that body was enjoined from enforcing was withdrawn by agreement pending the decision by the interstate commerce commission, to which the Ohio commission appealed. The commission holds that a carrier should give to the owner or lessee of private cars the use of such cars; and should also give to a coal company the foreign railway fuel cars consigned to it; but that such private and foreign railway fuel cars should, in the distribution of cars, be counted against the company to which delivered and such company should not be given, in addition to such delivery, a share of the system cars, except when the number of private and foreign railway fuel cars so delivered to it, is less than its distributive share of the available cars including system cars, foreign railway fuel cars, and so-called private cars, in which event it should be given only so many of the system cars as are necessary, when added to the number of private and foreign railway fuel cars assigned to it, to make up its distributive share of the total available cars, including system cars, foreign railway fuel cars, and so-called private cars. Defendants were ordered to distribute coal cars after Sept. 15 on the foreign basis.

The invitation extended Secretary Taft to address the Republicans of Columbus under the auspices of the Buckeye club the evening of Aug. 19 has been formally accepted. According to the latest advice Secretary Taft will reach Washington from his Canadian outing Aug. 12. He will spend several days in Washington attending to official business, leaving the national capital the evening of Aug. 18 and coming direct to Columbus. He is considering an invitation to speak in Louisville, Ky., Aug. 22, followed by addresses at Oklahoma City Aug. 24, Joplin, Mo., 26, if possible Springfield, Mo., 27, and Lincoln, Neb., 28, if it can be arranged. He will speak in Denver Aug. 30; at Portland, Ore., Sept. 6; Tacoma, 7, and Seattle, 9, and will sail on the steamer Minnesota, 10, for Manila.

Mr. Taft's Columbus speech will have national significance in view of his recent endorsement for president.

Not a little comment followed the publication by the Ohio Anti-Saloon league of its receipts and expenses during the past year, amounting in round numbers to $58,000 receipts and $56,000 expenses. This is a greater sum than was spent by both the Republican and Democratic state committees in the state campaign of 1905, when Governor Herrick was defeated for re-election, and is larger than the expenditures of the Republican committee in any Ohio campaign, with few exceptions. This large amount of money was secured by collections from the churches of the state, it being one of the functions of the services held in the churches by agents of the league that a collection must be lifted for the cause. All of this cash was paid out by the officers of the Ohio league on vouchers approved by a committee appointed by the Ohio superintendent.

It will be recalled that this money was expended entirely for elections under the Jones law and organization, as there was no state campaign on. What was spent in 1905, when the league was so active in its opposition to the re-election of Governor Herrick, can only be surmised.

Columbus people are responding very liberally to the request of the board of trade to come forward and take care of the thousands who are expected here home-coming week. Fully 2,000 strangers can expect to have proper care taken of them that week.

According to present arrangements Dennis Hayes of New York will be the principal speaker Labor day, Sept. 2, the week of the state fair. He formerly lived at Newark, where he will speak the afternoon of the same day.

Vice President Fairbanks is to be in Columbus Friday during the state fair and home-coming week. He will address the G. A. R. at the state fair grounds.

Beginning Aug. 5 the board of elections will commence to name the new judges and clerks of election in the city and county. Each ward and town ship will be taken up separately and the claims of the various candidates will be considered. In every case, so far as possible, the word of the committee will be accepted as law and gospel, and those who do not have this mark need hardly expect recognition. It is further expected that the entire month of August will be taken up in the selection of the election officials who will conduct the primaries and final election in November.

PRINCESS GOWN.

A smart and becoming designed model for a young lady's gown is here pictured, one which is simple but very effective, and suitable for all materials, lawn, batiste, thin silk, mousseline and white net—the chosen fabrics for such gowns. The dress is made in one piece, tucks confine the fullness about the waist, the blouse has three rows of Valenciennes insertion set in front and back, the round neck having a frill of lace to match insertion set in the middle and on cuff, finished with lace. The skirt has three circular flounces, with a hand-embroidered spray and a lace frill on each.

ADVOCATE'S SHORT SATURDAY SERMON

By the Rev. T. W. Locke, pastor of the East Main St. M. E. Church.

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." John 10: 10.

This startling statement contains one of the sublimest truths ever uttered by our Lord "Never man spake like this man." He assures us that both quality and fulness of life are found in Him. It is impossible for us to exaggerate upon the aspirations of the present age for life. More applicable than ever before are the well known words.

"This life of which your veins are scant,

Oh life, not death for which we pant,

More life and fuller that we want."

Dr. Johnson makes the suppliant whether in sickness or in health to exclaim, "Enlarge my life with multitude of days." The life referred to in the text evidently means, the use of powers, and the happiness found in it, especially the higher powers. Jesus Christ came to encourage the development of the noblest type of life, which, expressed in a word is spiritual life.

Perhaps the only word which is the image of all that is good, is life, it was therefore thus employed by the Saviour when He said, "I am come that they might have life." After the severe storms of biblical criticism shall have passed over us, leaving in their wreckage here and there, a few fond hopes and cherished ideas, the strength of honest conviction will still be that the substance of the Gospel does not change.

What care we though the form of presenting the Gospel may undergo great modification and change this must be expected and indeed desired, for the public mind of our generation is very much changed from that of the generation to which Luther belonged, or even Wesley.

During the last few centuries the world has witnessed several great religious revivals. Each awakening has had its own peculiar watchword. That of the Reformation was Justification by Faith. We are told that the spiritual awakening of the 18th century was not turned to God directly but rather to man's personal responsibility and his individual salvation.

What is to be the watchword under which the Gospel must be presented to the present generation? The idea of the social aspect of Christianity is very prevalent today and under this form of awakening a very pleasing picture is presented. Men will be awakened by the fear of evil they may do by a wicked life and they will come to Christ for the power to live a life beneficial to the community. A revival along sociological lines, the kingdom of God among men in matters physical and material, life never had a deeper significance of meaning than it has today, so also is it in things moral and religious. The Word of God moves us at every turn in the world's progress and these the Bible, the church and the minister were excluded. In proportion as these infidel regulations prevailed those communities degenerated. Profanity, Sabbath desecration, idleness, sloth, dishonesty, and vice characterized the people and their homes. Poverty, disgrace and death naturally followed.

It has been, and always will be true that the home, the school, and every other element of social life flourish under the influence and teaching of the spirit of the Gospel.

The life which Christ came to impart, is a life of amazing fullness. It is not narrow, it is not exclusive, it does not mean asceticism; but it is a life of liberty and breadth. The idea of self-denial involved in it is frequently misunderstood, it is not the giving up of something good merely for the pain it will bring, or because there is any virtue in loss, but the giving up of some cherished thing, either because it is wrong or for the sake of a higher good.

Under the influence of this life, prodigate, ruined and worthless lives, have been transformed into happy and useful ones. Before his conversion, the noted hymn writer Thomas Olivers, was a wicked young man, his life was worse than useless. Under the preaching of Mr. Whitfield he was gloriously converted, he turned about and began to live. His Christian life had its beginning in paying the debts he had contracted by his riotous living, and in doing good where he had done so much harm. Slumbering genius awoke within his enlightened mind, and he began to write Christian hymns, such as, "The God of Abraham Praise," "O Thou God of My Salvation," and others, many of which are found in the hymnals of the great Protestant denominations, and will be sung to the end of time. It is an illustrative of the transforming power of the life of Christ.

What a poor, dull, pitiful thing life is to many of us, and yet how rich and glorious it might be! Its real meaning is found in the explanation given in the life and character of the Man of Galilee. Life in Him must be viewed in the light of a divine obligation, no place or calling is mean or unimportant. James Smetham, whose letters are among the most beautiful and suggestive things in modern literature, was an English Wesleyan class leader and drawing master in a small school. His salary was small and his position very precarious, his lot in many ways unenviable, yet the common duties of life became to him a Jacob's ladder full of attending angels, for he said, "What an honorable position I hold at the normal institute! I say this fully aware of the secular insignificance of it. What if I only mark with chalk the same old diagrams! It is the creative truth gleaming white on the abyss of the infinite." Never before was the life which Our Lord came to give so manifest in the world. Unite yourself to Him and your life shall become glorious.

WILLIE CUTE ARRANGES THINGS SATISFACTORILY AT HIS PICNIC.

UTILIZING MIDSUMMER BARGAINS

No garment in the woman's wardrobe is more indispensable than the kimono. The one shown is simplicity itself and exceedingly graceful. The shirred yoke is something quite new in kimonos. It gives an extra amount of fullness which falls in long, unbroken lines to the floor, adding considerably to the grace and comfort of the garment. It is shown in figured Oriental silk, with trimming bands of contrasting color. Other materials, such as China silk, cashmere, challis, lawn, dimity, and the inexpensive cotton crepes, are also suitable. For the medium size  $6\frac{1}{2}$  yards of 36-inch material will be required.

LADIES' SHIRRED KIMONO, in either long or short length. No. 5760. Sizes for small, medium and large.

Something that every woman always wants is another blouse. No. 5789 shows an exceedingly pretty blouse waist in charming style and yet simple enough to be attempted by the average home dressmaker. As shown, it was made of natural colored pongee, trimmed with frills of brown taffeta. It could be prettily developed in any of the cotton or light woolen materials. The sleeves may be full length or shorter, the short sleeves finished by modish turned back cuffs, while those in full length are gathered into straight bands. A turned-down collar over a standing band gives stylish neck completion. For 36 inches bust measure 2 yards of 36-inch material will be required.

LADIES' SHIRT-WAIST. No. 5789. Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

The pretty tucked blouse was developed in sheer batiste, and would be equally effective in white or colored China silk. The trimming of Val. lace and insertion gives chic and dainty touch. The sleeves are shown in elbow length, but, if preferred, may extend to the wrist, finished by deep close-fitting cuffs. The design is appropriate for all the materials that tuck nicely. For 36-inch bust measure  $2\frac{3}{4}$  yards of material 36 inches wide will be required.

LADIES' TUCKED BLOUSE. No. 5814. Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

Bath blouses are suitable for fall wear, as well as for dog days.

Unusual grace of line distinguishes this charming gown of blue and white plaid taffeta, made in jumper style, and appropriate for late summer and autumn wear. The neck is cut in low, graceful outlines, and is made to slip on easily over the head. The short-sleeve caps fall over the under sleeve of net or other sheer material. The skirt is particularly modish. It is constructed of seven gores and in the fashionable clearing length. Groups of pleats are laid in each of the side seams. They are stitched well below the hips and creased to the lower edge, where they flare widely. Plain or novelty mohair, voile, taffeta, rajah and the summer silks are all suitable. For 36-inch bust measure two yards of 27-inch material will be required for the blouse and  $8\frac{1}{2}$  yards for the skirt.

LADIES' JUMPER. No. 5894. Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

LADIES' SKIRT. No. 5824. Sizes for 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure.

The latest overblouse styles show the Japanese effect in the treatment of the sleeves. This loose, graceful sleeve frequently consists of bands of rich embroidery, Persian trimming or heavy lace, encircling the armhole and merely attached at the shoulder. The sleeve proper now forms part of the guimpe, which usually accompanies the dress. In fact, the guimpe and undersleeves are now regarded as an almost indispensable part of the gown. Panama voile was used for the gown pictured. The waist opens down to the waist line over a dainty blouse of dotted net. The kimono sleeve may be omitted if preferred. In the way of trimming, nothing finds greater favor than Persian embroidery, shown in good effect, in the narrow vests and wide short sleeves. The skirt is even-gored, and allows of being shirred or tucked at the hips, or simply gathered. The design is suitable for reproduction in voile, taffeta, rajah, and foulard. For 38-inch bust measure,  $1\frac{1}{4}$  yards of forty-four-inch material will be required for the waist and  $5\frac{1}{2}$  yards for the skirt.

LADIES' OVER-BLOUSE, with or without kimono sleeves. No. 5810. Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

LADIES' SHIRRED, Tucked or Plain Gathered Skirt, with or without panel front. No. 5307. Sizes for 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches waist measure.
